Pastor's Corner

Dear Brothers and Sisters in Christ,

Although innocent, Jesus was betrayed with a kiss, falsely accused, mocked, abandoned by His peers, beaten and tortured. While He would be justified in wiping out all those involved, Jesus, as He was nailed to the Cross, says, "Father, forgive them, they know not what they do." There is nothing we can do to prevent God from offering us His forgiveness.

However, we also see in the Gospel the human rejection of God's offer. One of the thieves refuses to take responsibility for his actions. He does not repent. In fact, he mocks Jesus. All the thief is interested in is getting off the cross and getting away with his crime. Yet, there is no such thing as easy grace.

The other thief, the Good Thief, recognizes his sin, asks for forgiveness and it is immediately given to him. Repentance and asking for forgiveness are all that is needed to have any sin forgiven. Once this was done, Jesus told him his reward will be Paradise.

So, if there is a sin in your life or you feel distant from God, please know there is nothing you have done that would merit God condemning you if you ask for God's forgiveness. Please feel free to speak with one of the priests or me if you are feeling away from God and want to return to His loving grace.

Happy Passion Sunday,

Fr. Jerome

PALM SUNDAY OF THE PASSION OF THE LORD

This weekend we celebrate Palm Sunday of the Passion of the Lord, the beginning of Holy Week. We gather to celebrate the beginning of Jesus' passage from life to death to new life: the Paschal Mystery. Like all the other liturgies of Holy Week, the liturgy of Palm Sunday has an interesting history.

The origin of the liturgy of Palm Sunday can be found in writings from the fifth century. The diary of Egeria the Pilgrim describes a day in which Christians of Jerusalem used to gather in the early afternoon on the Mount of Olives for a lengthy liturgy of the word. Then, toward evening they would go in procession into Jerusalem, carrying palm or olive branches. The first time that we hear of a liturgy similar to what we celebrate this weekend is in the eighth century.

The custom of blessing palms was found in writings in the middle of the eighth century. It is interesting to note that palm and olive branches were only obtained in southern countries. The practice was adapted to include green and blossoming branches of other trees in countries where palm and olive branches were not available. Ponce de Leon, the Spanish explorer, arrived at the territory known today as the state of Florida on Palm Sunday in 1513. He named the area "Florida" because of the abundance of flowers and because flowers were the substitutes for palms in his native country of Spain.

Trust in the power of the blessed palm branches led to some interesting practices throughout the years. For example, people often ate the buds and shoots of the blessed palms to ward off sickness. Farmers planted palm branches in the forms of crosses in the field or burned them there to ward off storms. People also fastened blessed palms to the crucifixes in their homes in order to protect residents from adversity. It took many years for people to understand that these objects held no magical powers but were symbols meant to express and stimulate faith, hope and love.

The text of the Byzantine Vespers tells of the dualistic nature of this liturgy. "Passing from one divine feast to another, from palms and branches, let us now make haste, O faithful, to the solemn and saving celebration of Christ's passion. Let us behold him undergo voluntary suffering for our sake, and let us sing to him with thanksgiving a fitting hymn: Fountain of tender mercy and haven of salvation, O Lord, glory to you!"
